Ship Mary at China taking on board Water June 1796

Friday June 10th Commences calm & pleasant. Load sails to dry &c.
We was this morning inform'd by one of our Slave, that was not confined, but on duty as a Sailor, that the slaves had intentions of taking the ship, & also advised us to be on our guard — About 8 AM Capt. Mory went on shore and also advised us to keep a good look-out over the slaves when they come upon deck to examine their Iron particularly — I first clear'd the booms of a number of small spurs &c, took off the rackings that they might not avail themselves of getting over the Barracade by the booms — Also took off a number of bundles of hoops that lay across the booms — Every thing being clear on the 1st deck, myself, Jacob Folgo, & John Jones took off the fore quating & Call'd them up two by two as they were iron'd & examined them, found all the ^{legs} Irons in good order, but half about 5 or 6 Iron of they being too large — When they were all up but 6 or 8 I cast my eyes down the Ladder and saw a large strong Slave, with a crated leg iron bolt in his hand which I seized, & endeavored to take from him, with all my strength but he held it in spite of me, by that I perceived his intentions were hostile As they all gathered round us, & gave a loud shout, at which I retreated for the Bar--cade door, looking behind me just as I got to the Door I saw the same Man endeavouring to take a billet of wood that was ~~quarantined~~ under a pipe of wine for a quire, by which means I escaped through the door & barred it (having call'd out to the Centinel to fire as soon as I began to retreat & saw them Folgo & Jones) as soon as the door was barred I mounted the platform off the Barracade, & directly saw one of them in pursuit of Jones with the bolt of a leg Iron in his hand, but ~~the~~ nimbly escap'd by the booms over the Barracade but Folgo was sadly wounded with this Iron about the head & would have been Murdered had it not been for our muskets (5 of which was fired & Blunderbuss) Folgo bore himself down the ~~stair~~ hatchway by which he escap'd — For the interior about 12 of them came & placed ~~themselves~~ ^{themselves} their backs against the Barracade & the door, as though ^{they} had intentions to force it but, in so ordered a manner I cannot judge, if that was their intention or not, by brandishing the breeches of our Muskets retreated forward & cordially went below (having ordered the firing to cease almost as soon as I got on the platform) John Portuguese Capt came onboard by this time, with about 20 Armed men & others, & we opened the Coating and brought them up half dozen or so at once, & among the who found 20 or there about had entirely got their Irons off — They having broke down the bulk head between the Sailors Apartment & themselves & came through the fore scuttle upon our backs — After all was confined & put below We found there was 4 Missing 2 of which was sure to jump overboard & was presently drown'd, one was shot dead, & one with one limped death in the fray — & four wounded two of which pretty dangerously Camp'd the remainder of the day starting west. One trip from the Barracade Canoe 2 trips from our own boat the Surges on the bar continues here so that it is difficult passing & re-passing the weather end. Pleasant
